I. Introduction

In 2014, the International Conference on Music Perception and Cognition (ICMPC) returns to the Asia-Pacific area, following the tradition of ICMPC 1 (Kyoto, 1989), ICMPC 5 (Seoul, 1998), ICMPC 7 (Sidney, 2002), and ICMPC 10 (Sapporo, 2008). The meeting of 2014 is the third joint conference of ICMPC and APSCOM. Previous two joint conferences were held in Australia (ICMPC-APSCOM 2002) and Japan (ICMPC-APSCOM 2010). Thus, we are proposing to host ICMPC 2014 in Seoul, South Korea, with the meeting to be co-hosted by Yonsei University, Korean Society for Music Theory (KSMT), and Korean Society for Music Perception and Cognition (KSMPC). Professor Moo Kyong Song at Yonsei University will be the chair of the conference.

Conference Organizer: Professor Moo Kyong Song

Moo Kyong Song (msong999@yonsei.ac.kr) at Yonsei University is the President of Korean Society for Music Theory (KSMT) and the President Elect of Korean Society for Music Perception and Cognition (KSMPC). He serves as Director of Graduate Studies, Head of Music Research Institute at Yonsei University. He received his master's and doctoral degrees in music theory from University of Texas at Austin.

Conference Co-organizer: Professor Kyungil Kim

Kyungil Kim (kyungilkim@ajou.ac.kr) is an Associate Professor in the psychology department at Ajou University. He received his Ph.D. from University of Texas at Austin, where he has worked on the Similarity and Cognition lab and the Pennebaker lab as a post-doctoral research fellow.

In collaboration with Dr. Sun-Hee Chang, the President of APSCOM (presidency 2012–2014)

Sun-Hee Chang (shchanggh@gmail.com) is a lecturer in music education. She received her Ed.D.C.T. from Teachers College, Columbia University. She has served as the president of KSMPC and Vice-president of APSCOM. She has organized the first academic APSCOM regional conference successfully in 2005 (APSCOM2) at the graduate school of Education, Ewha Womans University in Seoul, Korea.

After hosting ICMPC 5, KSMPC has grown in quantity and quality. The Korean society has organized numerous academic activities and also successfully held APSCOM2 in Seoul. With this rich experience of hosting international meetings, KSMPC will effectively organize ICMPC-APSCOM 2014.

Locational benefits of Yonsei University also contribute to a successful conference in Seoul. Yonsei University has a large, quiet, and well-wooded campus in the middle of a metropolis of 12 million inhabitants, only 15 minutes away from the centers of government, business and culture. The campus is located in Sinchon, and three other colleges are nearby. Therefore, the Sinchon area has become the gathering place for young, hip college crowds. There are many trendy restaurants, shops and cafes. Yonsei University is well-positioned to accommodate a conference of ICMPC's size.

The tradition of ever rising academic standards of ICMPC meetings will be kept at ICMPC 2014. Yonsei University is a leading research university, well known in the field of both music and psychology. Active participation of faculty members and students in music and psychology programs at Yonsei University will elevate the academic quality of ICMPC 2014. In addition, close cooperation with related societies, including Korean Society for biological psychology, Korean Society for Cognitive Science, and Korean Society for Brain and Neural Science, will enrich the diversity of the conference. Most of all, the co-host of KSMPC and KSMT will present an unprecedented opportunity to highlight a broad spectrum of music cognition and music theory.

The conference will feature many eminent scholars from ESCOM and SMPC regions, as well as those in APSCOM area as keynote speakers. The participation of young researchers will be encouraged through granting various awards for students and junior researchers. The constitution of Program Committee will reflect both the international and interdisciplinary nature of ICMPC: Distinguished scholars in diverse research specialties from different continents will be invited to join the committee in order to form a close network among academic disciplines and geographical regions. Professor John Rink (University of Cambridge, UK) and Professor Robert Gjerdingen (Northwestern University, USA) will join the program committee. Given that the quality of a conference depends highly on the review process, many leading scholars who represent the finest scholarship of our day will be invited to the Scientific Advisory Board. Professor Suk Won Yi of Seoul National University, organizer of ICMPC 5 and former president of KSMPC and APSCOM shall serve as the Program Organizer of ICMPC 13-APSCOM 5.

Program Organizer: Professor Suk Won Yi

Suk Won Yi (sukwon@snu.ac.kr) is Professor and Chair of Musicology at Seoul National University. Professor Yi has served as the conference organizer of ICMPC 5, and he was the President of KSMPC (1998–2004) and APSCOM (2004–2006). Yi received his Ph.D. from UCLA.

Seoul is the capital of Korea. The word "Seoul" means capital in traditional Korean. Since the Joseon Dynasty (1392-1910), Seoul has been the capital of Korea for more than 600 years, and it has developed into a bustling metropolis, acting as the hub for political, economical, social and cultural matters.

The Hangang (River) flows through, from east to west, in Seoul and it is surrounded by great mountains, and the city contains both history and tradition, as well as the latest IT technology, making it a kind of a city, which is quite rare anywhere on the globe.

Seoul is a city of various culture and variation. The city has over 700 museums, including the National Museum of Korea and the National Folk Museum, which all contain countless number of articles, a number of performance centers, such as the Sejong Center for Performing Arts, National Theater and more, and has over 400 galleries.

In Seoul, various traditional or traditional aristocratic cultures can be met. One can enjoy traditional festive dances and palace food to feel like the king of “Joseon, the nation of morning calm,” and one can also experience the life of the past in the Bukchon Hanok Village.

Tradition is not the only thing that can be met in Seoul. There is a wide range of modern and fusion culture of the West and the East, along with up-to-date, cutting edge technology, and a number of world class performances, including "NANTA," "JUMP," and B-boy performances can be enjoyed in Seoul as well.

VII. Activities and Excursions

Including traditional sites, museums, art galleries, major landmarks and shopping destinations, numerous attractions are in Seoul and its vicinities.

1) N Seoul Tower

Seoul at night seen from N Seoul Tower

N Seoul Tower by night

N Seoul Tower was built in 1969 as Korea's first integrated transmission tower beaming television and radio broadcasts across the capital. Since opening to the public in 1980, it has become a much-loved Seoul landmark. The tower's main attractions include multi-colored digital art projected onto the tower at night, a digital observatory, a roof terrace, the HanCook restaurant, the n.Grill restaurant, and the Haneul (Sky) Restroom. N Seoul Tower's mountain surroundings on Namsan (Mt.) have made it a popular place to unwind for locals and tourists alike.

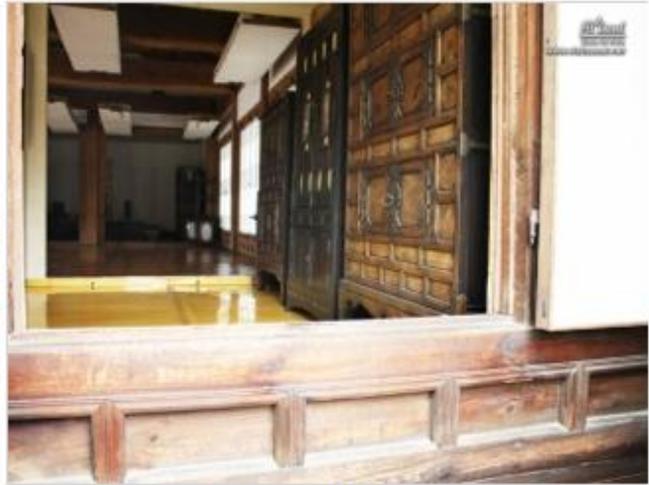

Seoul has a number of viewing platforms where visitors can enjoy the nighttime cityscape or gaze out onto the Hangang (River) but the tower's Digital Observatory is unique, offering an astonishing 360 degree panorama over the city, and 32 LCD screens recounting the 600-year history of Seoul. That is why the observatory is so popular and such a source of pride.

Traditional furniture in a hanok

Namsangol Hanok Village is a collection of five hanoks (traditional Korean houses) from the Joseon Dynasty (1392-1910), recovered from different parts of the city and relocated to the northern foot of Namsan mountain. The interiors of each of these five houses reflect owners from different walks of life, from the middle class to the yangban (who were mainly high government officials, noblemen and aristocrats).

At the Hanok village, international visitors can participate in traditional Korean activities such as archery and enjoy traditional Korean performances as well. Anyone who is curious about Korean wedding culture should visit the village on the weekend when the wedding ceremony reenactments take place.

3) Andong Tour - Hahoe Village (UNESCO World Heritage)

Andong City is located in North Gyeongsang Province, the southeast side of South Korea. Although Andong is a relatively small town with a population of approximately 170,000, it offers the sophistication of a cultural capital. Packed into such a compact area is a wealth of diverse regional areas and attractions, from folk villages to temples and museums. Best of all, for those yearning to see what Korea looked like before the arrival of skyscrapers and buses, spend a day at Hahoe Folk Village in Andong City. Hahoe is the village where the members of Ryu family, originated from Hahoe Village, have lived together for 600 years. It is one of representative traditional villages that single family has resided. Tile-roofed houses and thatched roofed ones have been quite well conserved for a long time. http://visitkorea.or.kr/enu/SI/SI_EN_3_1_1_1.jsp?cid=264148
